Executive Summary

- The 13 Edmonton Business Improvement Area (BIA) associations referenced in this report have submitted their proposed 2023 operating budgets for City Council's consideration.
- Council approval is required in accordance with municipal and provincial processes and regulations.
- BIA budgets are provided through tax levies, and so the proposed 2023 BIA tax levies range from $80,000 to $1,489,554.
- All 13 budgets presented to City Council with this report were voted on and approved by the membership of the individual BIA associations. These taxes are remitted in full to each BIA association.
- Of the 13 BIA associations, four have maintained their budgets at 2022 levels, while eight are seeking an increase, and one (Chinatown) is proposing a small decrease. These budgets reflect each BIA association's priorities and the resources required to achieve them.
- In 2022, the BIA levy was $3.76 million overall, compared to a proposed $4.09 million levy overall for 2023. Of note, in 2020 (prior to the COVID-19 pandemic), the total of the BIA levies was $3.84 million.

REPORT

A business improvement area (BIA) is a defined geographic area in which businesses combine resources and work together through a formal association of business members to enhance the economic development of their area. Edmonton's 13 BIA associations and their board members are critical partners in achieving the City's strategic goal of Regional Prosperity and the ongoing development of Edmonton's economic strategy, the Economic Action Plan. A BIA and its related association are created by City bylaw, and each of Edmonton's 13 BIAs has its own bylaw.

City Council must approve BIA association budgets annually, pursuant to the province's Business Improvement Area Regulation (Alberta Regulation 93/2016), the City's BIA bylaws, and City Policy C462B, Business Revitalization Zone Establishment and Operation. Boards of directors for the 13 associations have provided their members with the details of their proposed budgets required to operationalize each association's priorities, have presented and approved their budgets at their respective annual general meetings, and have forwarded them to City Council for approval in compliance with provincial and municipal processes and regulations.

Annual BIA budgets include total BIA tax levies that an association needs to collect from its members to fund initiatives and operations. The proposed 2023 tax levies for the 13 BIAs range from $80,000 to $1,489,554, for an aggregated total of $4.09 million. The 2023 change in BIA levies is an overall increase of $331,482 (+8.82 per cent) for 2023, as described in Attachment 1, compared to an increase of $404,356 (+12.05 per cent) in 2022.

Once the budgets are approved by Council, the City sets the respective BIA tax rates and then collects the taxes from all businesses operating in the BIAs. These taxes are remitted in full to each BIA association as indicated in Attachment 1, to fund each association's activities.

COMMUNITY INSIGHT

In September and October each year, Edmonton's 13 BIAs hold their annual general meetings where BIA members are invited to participate and vote on the budget set by the Board of Directors for the association. All 13 budgets presented to City Council with this report were voted on and approved by the membership of the individual BIAs, according to provincial and municipal processes and regulations.

GBA+

BIA administrators (i.e. Executive Directors and boards) recognize the importance of anticipating the needs of equity seeking groups and business owners. Administration is working to develop resources for partner organizations to help them to learn about and apply an equity lens on the planning and execution of BIA initiatives. Integrating GBA+ processes can help ensure that the work and budget allocation contributes to the accessibility and equity of BIA services.

While BIAs are independent entities with their own procedures and operating guidelines, City Administration will:

- Periodically review the bylaws, policies and procedures that govern BIAs to require a GBA+ process for budget formation.
- Collaborate with all 13 BIA association administrators to ensure they have the support to understand, appreciate and apply a high quality GBA+ process, in determining and setting the budget that funds the operations and events of the association.
