Below are brief public bios as provided by new Appointees:

Carrie-Ann Lunde	Edmonton Historical Board
Originally from Edmonton, Alberta, Carrie completed her Bachelor’s degree at the University of Alberta in English & Ancient/Medieval History, Master’s degree in Public History from Western University in Ontario, and Graduate Certificate in Professional Communications Management at Royal Roads University in Victoria. Specializing in strategic communications planning, online platforms, and brand management, she has actively worked in promoting the arts, culture, heritage and non-profit sectors for over ten years. Currently Acting Vice-president of Marketing & Communications at United Way of the Alberta Capital Region, she was previously head of marketing and media at the Royal Tyrrell Museum of Palaeontology in Drumheller, AB, and Communications Lead at the Alberta Museums Association. She also continues to provide consultation and facilitation services in the heritage sector on marketing, communications, and fund development. An avid world traveller, she is an active volunteer and has sat on numerous boards and committees for a variety of organizations including museums, tourism, and community groups.

Alison McGavigan	Edmonton Historical Board
Alison McGavigan has been a proud Edmontonian since she moved to the city in 2010. After completing her undergraduate degree at the University of Alberta, Alison began her career in commercial real estate. Since 2011, she has worked for two national commercial real estate firms as a real estate appraiser, obtaining her professional accreditation (AACI) through the Appraisal Institute of Canada. During this time, she also completed her Masters in Business Administration degree at the UofA. She currently holds the position of Vice President, Valuation Advisory at Jones Lang LaSalle, and provides real estate appraisal and consulting services for clients across Western Canada. In her spare time, Alison enjoys spending time with her husband and two dogs, traveling, reading, and staying active through running and cycling.

Nancy McDonald	Edmonton Historical Board
Nancy MacDonald has made her home in Edmonton for almost thirty years. Nancy has a Masters Degree in Political Science and a life-long passion for public policy. She has held a variety of roles with the Government of Alberta, including her current position as the Director of Policy and Business with the Alberta Parks system. She has received a Rotary Paul Harris Fellowship award for her past advocacy work on improving the organ donation system in Alberta. Connecting communities through our shared narratives and experiences – past and present – is how we both honour where we come from and how we orient ourselves to the future. This city is full of tremendous stories and it is Nancy’s privilege to help share them with Edmontonians and with our many visitors.
